HUMAN SEX TRAFFICKING

Introduction: Lisa Coen, DIC – Human Sex Trafficking Section

D'Lita Miller - From Victim to Survivor to Advocate

In Los Angeles County, an estimated 3,000 children are trafficked for sex. Some are runaways, others are in the foster care system, while others are misled into the trade by pimps who pretend to be boyfriends. These pimps are often violent and sometimes tattoo their victim's face or neck to further humiliate them and discourage them from leaving.

D'Lita Miller is a survivor of sexual exploitation that started at age 11. In 2009, Ms. Miller's 16-year-old daughter became a victim of child sex trafficking, prompting Ms. Miller to become educated and empowered on the subject. Ms. Miller has more than 10 years of professional experience working to rescue young victims from the streets and empower those affected by human sex trafficking. Ms. Miller is the founder and executive director of Families Against Sex Trafficking (F.A.S.T). She is also the co-author and facilitator of a nationwide intervention curriculum, Ending the Game. Ms. Miller will share her personal story and provide guidance on how prosecutors and law enforcement officers can communicate with and more effectively assist those affected by these crimes.
